No charges in Sinclair death: Cops

ER fatality. Report and investigators expected to be subpoenaed for public inquest

SHANE GIBSON

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

Winnipeg police said Tuesday no charges will be laid in connection with the death of Brian Sinclair, who waited more than 30 hours for medical attention at the emergency department of the Health Sciences Centre.

Sinclair, a 45-year-old double amputee, arrived at the ER in September 2008, and died 34 hours later of a treatable gall-bladder infection.

The chief of police ordered a complete investigation into the case, which lasted 10 months.

During the investigation, more than 170 people were interviewed, including patients, visitors and staff members at the HSC, according to police.

"This is such a unique investigation. We've never done anything like this before," said Det.-Sgt. John O'Donovan, who led the probe and added that it was a Canadian first. "It was uncharted waters that we had to go through and that's why it took so long for it to come back."

The investigation involved not only the Criminal Code but also several other provincial acts, said O'Donovan.

Once the investigation was complete, a report was sent to Manitoba Justice for an opinion as to whether charges were warranted. Manitoba Justice in turn sent the file to Saskatchewan Justice, which determined no charges were warranted.

Winnipeg police Chief Keith McCaskill said the investigation's findings won't be made public until an inquest is held, and he wouldn't comment on whether Sinclair's death was preventable.

"The inquest is set up to look at all the facts and make recommendations," he said. The inquest had been put on hold until the criminal investigation wrapped up.

There was no word Tuesday as to when it would begin.

NBA. Elite basketball set to hustle Winnipeg

Some of the world's best basketball players will touch down in Winnipeg this fall to play an exhibition game at MTS Centre.

The Minnesota Timberwolves will take on the Detroit Pistons at MTS Centre on Oct. 24, as part of the NBA's first ever NBA Canada Series.

"This preseason game will give Winnipeggers a rare opportunity to enjoy the world's most elite level of basketball in their own backyard," said MTS Centre general manager Kevin Donnelly.

"The NBA, the zenith of basketball competition, the world's most elite players, its energy and pace of play, the amazing skill level of its players and Winnipeg and the MTS Centre all taken together will make for an electrifying evening of sports and entertainment."

Minnesota Timberwolves president Chris Wright said the number of Winnipeggers travelling to Minnesota to see NBA games has made the Winnipeg market an important part of the Timberwolves fan base.

"It's amazing how many visitors we now get to the Minneapolis market place to see the Minnesota Timberwolves play games at Target Centre," said Wright.

Wright assured Winnipeggers that even though the game at MTS Centre will be an exhibition, the best players will be on the court. "The fans of Winnipeg are in for a treat. You are going to see all of the stars playing in this game that are healthy," he said.

The NBA Canada Series will also see a game played in Montreal featuring the New York Knicks and Toronto Raptors. Tickets for the Winnipeg game go on sale Friday at 10 a.m. at Ticketmaster.

Blood donations. U of M student challenges the health minister to raise awareness

winnipeg@metronews.ca

Health Minister Theresa Oswald rolled up her sleeves Monday to donate blood.

"By recruiting her, I was hoping I could help spread awareness," said 19-year-old Graeme Fortlage. "A very small percentage of the population donates blood currently, and I want to increase the percentage of people donating."

Minister Oswald was one of 27 people the University of Manitoba student has recruited so far this summer as part of Canadian Blood Services' (CBS) Assignment Saving Lives summer bursary program.

"My goal is to bring in as many people as I can. I don't have a specific goal," he said.

This is Fortlage's second year taking part in the program. Last year, he brought in 155 recruits.

"Last year I was interested in the bursary, but now that I've gotten into CBS's recruiting system, I'm more interested in just getting as many people out as possible," he said.

Fortlage has been going to CBS with his mom since he was three, and has been donating regularly every two months since he was 17.

"I'm hoping that Graeme brags about this and inspires some competition," said Minister Oswald, who is also a regular donor.

She said hopes her participation will encourage others to donate during the summer when CBS sees a decline in regular donations.

"Give it a try, there's no reason not to try — you may find that it's easy for you — and if it's not, you can recruit your friends," said Fortlage.

In 2011, the program brought in 1,000 blood donations. To donate, call 1-888-2-Donate.

It's in the blood

- Cardiovascular surgery requires five units of blood
- Leukemia treatment requires eight units of blood a week
- An automobile accident can require up to 50 units of blood
- Each blood donation is equal to one unit

Advisory. Discoloured water not a concern: City

The City of Winnipeg says some residents can expect discoloured tap water during peak water-use periods — such as heat waves — but it is nothing to be concerned about.

A release Tuesday explains that any time there is a change in water flow the natural build-up of material in the water main is disturbed and can cause off-coloured water at some properties.

Peak hourly water use reached a high of 18.8-million litres Monday in Winnipeg, one of the highest on record in the last 10 years.

Comic Con. Trekkies, your captain will be in the house

Well, beam us up.

Central Canada Comic Con announced Tuesday actors Sir Patrick Stewart and Brent Spiner will be coming to the show happening in Winnipeg, Nov. 2-4.

Stewart, while considered one of the U.K.'s finest stage actors, is likely most familiar to Canadians as Jean-Luc Picard, captain of the starship Enterprise on Star Trek: The Next Generation. It's a role he played for seven years on the hit TV series and in several movies. He's also known for his role as Professor Charles Xavier in the X-Men movies.

Hog wild. Winnipeg airport finds out what it's like when pigs fly

So it's true — pigs do fly.

The Winnipeg Airport Authority dealt with unique cargo on Tuesday as 850 hogs were shipped from James A. Richardson International Airport to Chengdu, China. The animals are destined to be breeding stock, said Genesus Genetics VP Mike Van Schepdael, whose company made the shipment.

"As a Manitoba-based company, we are very fortunate to have excellent facilities at Winnipeg Richardson International Airport," said Van Schepdael in a press release. "Developing quality breeding stock is our passion; sharing our expertise around the world quickly and efficiently is made possible

Community planning. Consultant needed for Corydon plan: Mayor

Winnipeg Mayor Sam Katz has waded into a heated battle over the Corydon/Osborne neighbourhood plan.

Katz said in a press release on Tuesday that he is bringing together stakeholders, including area Coun. Jenny Gerbasi, Coun. Jeff Browaty, who represents North Kildonan and is the chair of the property and development committee, community representative Carla Richmond, local business owner Jerry Cianflone, residential developer Jeff Rabb, Winnipeg CAO Phil Sheegl and COO Deepak Joshi.

"We all appreciate the distinctive energy and atmosphere this neighbourhood provides," said Katz.

On Wednesday, Katz will be bringing forward a motion at executive policy committee asking the Public Service hire a consultant to work with the stakeholders and build on the planning that has already been developed for the Corydon/Osborne neighbourhood.

Katz also requested that the Public Service take a closer look at the members of the Corydon/Osborne Community Planning Advisory Committee to ensure fair representation of all stakeholders in the community, such as residents, business, and developers. METRO

Quidam. Show bound to impress Winnipeg audience: Performer

For four days next week, Winnipeg's MTS Centre will be transformed into a big top as Cirque du Soleil's Quidam rolls into town.

Adrienn Banhegyi, one of Quidam's performers who specializes in jump rope, was in Winnipeg on Tuesday to provide a sneak peek and promote the show.

Banhegyi said MTS Centre will not be recognizable to Jets fans once Quidam moves in.

"The setup in the arena is totally different. When you enter the arena, it won't be a hockey arena anymore," she said, adding Quidam travels with a huge metal arch that brings the performers above the heads of the audience.

One of Cirque du Soleil's oldest shows, Quidam made its debut in 1996 and was, up until a couple years ago, only performed under a tent — the reason why it hadn't been through Winnipeg before.

Quidam tells the story of Zoe, a young girl who is bored and, ignored by her parents, slides into an imaginary world where she meets interesting characters.

"I really like the story, it relates to everyday life, it relates to families always rushing every day," said Banhegyi,

Adrienn Banhegyi, Quidam performer, on the transformation the MTS Centre will go through for the Cirque du Soleil show originally from Szombathely, Hungary. "It's an emotional show."

Banhegyi joined Quidam last year. Before that, she performed in New York City's Madison Square Garden with Cirque's Christmas show called Wintuk.

About 20 people will be on-stage during Banhegyi's performance. The international cast of Quidam features 52 world-class acrobats, musicians, singers and characters from 18 countries.

Quidam's run in Winnipeg includes seven shows over four days, July 19 to 22, with matinees on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Tickets start at $40 for adults and $32 for children 12 and under, and are available at the MTS Centre box office and ticketmaster.ca.

Experimental Lakes Area being mourned

Mock wake. Scientists protest termination of research waters

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

A mock wake for Canada's Experimental Lakes Area — set to be terminated next March as part of federal budget cuts — was held at the University of Manitoba Tuesday to protest the move.

"Today, we mourn the Experimental Lakes, but more-over, we mourn the blindfold of ignorance imposed upon our once-great country," said John Shearer, a retired senior biologist with the Department of Fisheries and Oceans who worked at the area for 35 years. "The best scientists in the world flocked to these Canadian lakes to ask questions that could not be asked elsewhere."

Located in Ontario, the ELA has provided advice to policy-makers and industry on such issues as: harmful algal blooms, acid rain, the impact of hormones in sewage effluent on fish health, evidence that flame retardants degrade into banned toxic chemicals, and measures to lower mercury contamination in fish.

The protest attracted roughly a dozen mourners dressed in black, and was held in tandem with the Death of Evidence Rally held in Ottawa.

Congo warlord jailed: Is his partner next?

First tried gets 14 years. Missing partner Bosco Ntaganda also indicted for sending child soldiers to kill and be killed banga, who cried when he was put on a plane from Congo to The Hague in 2006, is a small player among Congo's many belligerents.

Lubanga's case has brought increasing pressure for the arrest of his much more infamous partner, renegade Congolese army Gen. Bosco Ntaganda. The ICC indicted both men for war crimes involving child soldiers.

But a 2009 peace deal saw Ntaganda wearing the stripes of a general as he integrated his fighters into the Congolese army.

Sensing the end of the road this year, the veteran warlord took off and now is accused of orchestrating a new rebellion in April.

Judge Adrian Fulford said the time Lubanga has been detained will be deducted from the sentence, meaning the 51-year-old will be free before he turns 60.

The International Criminal Court on Tuesday sentenced a Congolese warlord to 14 years in jail for using child soldiers.

But Thomas Lubanga's partner in crime has yet to be brought to justice.

Lubanga was found guilty in March of recruiting, kidnapping and abusing children — sending them to kill and be killed during tribal fighting in Congo's northeast Ituri region in 2002-2003.

Lubanga's was the first guilty judgment passed down in the court's decade-old existence.

Determination helps foreign-trained dentist restart his career in the Prairies

Discipline and hard work are paying off for Dr. Hooman Mohandesan, who today is enjoying the rewards of his labour, after a gruelling three-year journey to re-launch his career as a foreign trained dentist in Canada.

"It was honestly very hard, but when you're done, you feel the joy and pride of this difficult task," chuckles Iranian-born and trained Dr. Mohandesan, who completed the two-year International Dentist Degree Program at the University of Manitoba, as well as intensive National Dental Board exams.

To make it through the eligibility exams, interviews and heavy course load, Dr. Mohandesan followed a careful regime during those years – focusing on his studies with short work-outs at the gym." Since there was no guarantee that I would be accepted to the program on my first try, I concentrated on the exams and making contacts to learn the process and prepare myself," he recalls.

While excited to rebuild his career in welcoming, multicultural Canada, the dedicated student struggled to preserve his savings, since he didn't know when he might begin practicing his profession. "It took some time to get used to my new economic status as a student, with all the daily expenses, but no income," he explains.

Fortunately, during an orientation event at University of Manitoba, Dr. Mohandesan met Scott Bollman, a Manager of Small Business at Scotiabank. "I liked the interaction with Scott at our meeting," says Dr. Mohandesan. "Since as a newcomer I was not very familiar with the Canadian financial system, I had a lot of questions, and Scott was very patient throughout our discussion about student loans and banking options."

Scott explained the Scotia Professional® Student Plan, tailored for students like Dr. Mohandesan who was completing a professional degree, offered tips on affordable Winnipeg neighbourhoods, and demonstrated how a Scotiabank line of credit would accommodate his needs.

"It's more like a friendship, since I'm really dealing with a human being, not just an institution," says Dr. Mohandesan to describe the responsive Scotiabanker who has also helped him apply for a credit card, foreign currency accounts and provided advice on saving for his future.

"That's how we serve our customers, particularly new Canadians who face many challenges to establish themselves at the beginning," observes Scott. He adds that he offers programs such as the Scotiabank StartRight® Program¹ for Newcomers, which includes a free day-to-day bank account for one year², a wide range of credit card options³ and a number of other customized services and benefits.

Although Dr. Mohandesan is enjoying a bit more leisure time since graduating, he continues his hard working style, serving as a Dental Implants Fellow and as a researcher and clinical instructor at the Faculty of Dentistry at the University of Manitoba. His advice to other newcomers, "Concentrate on your goals, learn the process, and build good relationships with people who know what to do to get your career or finances in order."

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK®.

Through his disciplined study, and helpful financial advice from Scotiabank, Dr. Hooman Mohandesan, is now enjoying life in Canada.

TOUGH TO DENY GLOBAL WARMING WITH RECORD HEAT

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca/justsaying

The evidence is mounting.

The past six months have been the hottest in U.S. history. Going back further, the last 12 months have been the hottest in the U.S. since they began keeping weather records and all the meteorologists had beards.

If that's not "global warming," I don't know what is. But, of course, if you're floating along De Nial and you encounter evidence that might capsize your boat, you just toss it overboard.

Science says...

"Angered and frustrated by the intransigence of climate change deniers, the latest results have scientists standing in line to say 'I told you so.'" you explain the fact that more people believe in angels (72 per cent) than Darwin's Theory of Evolution (45 per cent), even though there is plenty of evidence for evolution (e.g. the entire fossil record) and zero evidence for angels (It's a Wonderful Life doesn't count).

Of course there are exceptions. Like Vancouver, where I live. Vancouver appears to be the sole exception to global warming on the entire continent. While everyone else is sweltering through the hottest summer on record, the poor downtrodden, sodden masses of Vancouver have just been through the fourth coldest June on record. It's been the Vancouver version of winter (10 degrees, raining) since last October.

From where we sit (shivering, cowering), global warming can only be seen as a cruel hoax. It may have reached an all-time record high of 113 F (45 C) in Johnston, S.C., recently, but it only reached or exceeded 20 C five times in Vancouver throughout all of May and June. I've got moss growing on the north side of my house. My feet haven't been warm since 1989, when I moved to the "Wet Coast."

Global warming is a little quirky in spots.

That doesn't mean it doesn't exist. Angered and frustrated by the intransigence of climate change deniers, the latest results have scientists standing in line to say "I told you so." That's except for those scientists whose funding has been cut by the Harper government. They're standing in that other line, the unemployment line.

I'm guessing all this hot air will remain an inconvenient truth, especially for the government of Canada, which is among the most heavily invested in denial, thanks to the inconvenient truth that Alberta's oil sands — which mean billions to the nation's economy — are the poster petroleum of climate change.

Still, when Calgary, Stephen Harper's own "greatest city on earth," and principal beneficiary of the oil sands, is in the middle of a nasty heat wave, you have to wonder if he and his oil baron buddies are getting a little hot under the collar.

If they're looking for relief, we in Vancouver will gladly take a couple of degrees.

This weather is crazy, just like Jeff Grayson, who somersaults from a rope swing in Cockeysville, Md., in this July 2 photo.

I had to place lights around the bubbles from all different sides."

Bubbles used for thinnest TV screen

Earlier this month, an international research team discovered a way to use a soap bubble screen as the world's thinnest TV display. Japanese and U.S. scientists used ultrasonic sound to change the properties of a bubble's membrane. Ice Age: Continental Drift continues a Hollywood tradition of bending history. HANDOUT

Hollywood history earns failing grade

Top 10. Here are just a few examples of movies that rewrite the history books to suit their narratives

IN FOCUS
Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

"We fought dinosaurs in the ice age," Sid the Sloth says in this weekend's Ice Age: Continental Drift. "It didn't make sense, but it was fun."

It doesn't make sense because dinosaurs were already extinct by the time Manny, Sid and Diego entered the ice age, but the popular kids' movies aren't trying to teach, they're simply continuing a long-held Hollywood tradition of bending history to suit their stories.

Here are 10 other bits of Hollywood history that earn a failing grade.

1 The movie When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth

drew on Phoenician, Latin and Sanskrit to create a fake caveman language. Here's a quick Berlitz primer in cave-speak: For "come back" say "neecha," "akita" is "look" and "neecro" is "bad."

2 The man-eating Rhedosaurs in The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms is a dinosaur, but one that no paleontologist would recognize. It's rumoured the mythical beast's name was inspired by the initials of the man who created it, special effects wiz Ray Harryhausen.

3 Mel Gibson wore clothes from the future in Braveheart. The movie is set in the late 13th century, but the kilts he wears didn't come into existence until 300 years later.

4 Instead of dying in the gladiatorial arena, as Gladiator would have you believe, Emperor Commodus was strangled in a bathtub a decade after his would-be movie assassin (played by Russell Crowe) died.

5 The Spartans in 300 run into battle against the Persian army protected only by leather thongs and rock-hard abs, when in fact they wore bronze armour.

6 As a knight returning from the Crusades in 1272, Nic Cage discovers a plague outbreak in Season of the Witch. Trouble is, the Black Death didn't strike until 76 years later.

7 In 10,000 BC woolly mammoths are used as labour to build the pyramids in Egypt. Wrong! Woolly mammoths weren't desert creatures and the pyramids weren't built until 2500 BC.

8 In Elizabeth: The Golden Age, the Queen is courted by Ivan the Terrible in 1585, who, in reality, was dead by then, felled by a stroke while playing chess.

9 California joins the Union at the end of Legend of Zorro in a ceremony that includes President Lincoln. Whoops! California became a state in 1850 and Lincoln wasn't president until 1861.

10 The title of the historical disaster film Krakatoa:

East of Java is a geographical head-scratcher. Krakatoa was actually west of Java.

Montreal hotel tops customer review

A downtown Montreal hotel boasting an art collection featuring the likes of Andy Warhol, Roy Lichtenstein and Marc Chagall has topped Expedia's annual list of the best Canadian hotels. LHotel, located on Rue Saint-Jacques near the Palais des congress, scored highest in 2011 in Expedia customer reviews, says the online travel agency. The hotel, which opened in 2001, occupies an 1870 building that first served as the head office of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank. Artworks are displayed in public areas and guest rooms of the property. Other top-rated Canadian hotels on the Expedia.ca list: Pan Pacific Whistler Village Centre, Whistler-Blackcomb, B.C.; Four Seasons Vancouver; Prince George Hotel, Halifax; and Pinnacle Hotel at the Pier, North Vancouver. The No. 1 hotel in the world, according to Expedia, was Marro's Boutique Hotel in Bratislava, Slovakia. In the world ranking, LHotel placed 59th. The global list identifies the top hotels available on Expedia based on quality and value scores.

Canadians not always aware of medical costs when travelling: BMO survey

Are you brave enough to descend into a Hell Hole?

Some of the Hell Holes near Napanee, Ont., have ladders so visitors can descend their depths. COURTESY: TOP 115 UNUSUAL THINGS TO SEE IN ONTARIO, BOSTON MILLS PRESS

Book excerpt.

Looking for a trip off the beaten path? Try thumbing through a collection of weird Ontario sites

A walk through the forest can sometimes be a dangerous thing, not necessarily from wolves or bears or even deer hunters, but from a careless step into a hole, especially when the hole leads to Hell.

The limestone ridge along the Salmon River north of Napanee, Ont. contains some of the area's most unusual natural features. There are caves, crevices and odd-looking rock columns. But the strangest of the oddities are what locals call the "Hell Holes."

To early settlers unfamiliar with geology, these holes in the forest floor seemed to have no end. While most are little larger than foxholes, a few are large enough to allow a human to squeeze through. Those who braved the descent found caverns that stretched in many directions.

Geologists refer to these phenomena as "karst" features. Karst topography occurs when soft limestone layers beneath a hard upper layer dissolve in water. This weathering causes caves and caverns, and the Hell Holes.

Similar to caves, the holes in the forest floor can open into large, pitch-black rooms, one of which was once large enough to hold 20 people (it later collapsed). While there are other locations in Ontario with similar features, the ridge by the Salmon River, near the village of Roblindale, offers the greatest concentration of these cavities. Most are located in the privately run Hell Holes Park. Here, a self-guided trail, a little over three kilometers long, leads not only to the strange holes, but also over natural rock bridges, through eerie canyons lined with layered cliffs and columns, and then to the Devil's Horses' Stable hole, 7.5 metres deep and 2.5 by 3.5 metres square. A ladder leads to those depths.

Hell Holes Park is located on Centreville Road about 5.5 kilometres east of Highway 41, and 10.7 kilometres north of Highway 401 (Exit 579). Snacks, gifts and, of course, flashlights are available in the log cabin shop. It is said that one visitor even took his wedding vows in the Hell Holes. The duration of this marriage is not known.

Turn cherries upside down (literally) in simple, yet mouth-watering, cake

1. Preheat oven to 350 F (180 C). Grease a 9-inch (23-cm) baking pan. In small pan, melt butter, then stir in brown sugar, and cook until sugar dissolves and boils for 1 minute. Pour into pan and spread evenly. Arrange cherries in a single layer over sugar mixture.

2. Using an electric mixer, beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar and continue to beat until creamy. Add eggs one at a time, scraping down sides until blended. Add vanilla and beat. In a small bowl, stir flour with baking powder, baking soda, salt and nutmeg. Gradually add flour to butter mixture alternately with milk, starting and ending with flour.

3. Spread batter evenly over cherries. Bake in centre of preheated oven until a toothpick comes out clean, about 60 to 70 minutes. Check cake after 50 minutes, and cover loosely with foil if getting too dark. Run a knife around the edge of cake pan. After 15 minutes, carefully invert onto a cake plate. Serve warm or at room temperature. Just before serving, dust with icing sugar if you like. NEWS CANADA/ ADAPTED BY EMILY RICHARDS, PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND TV CELEBRITY CHEF. The key to my success? Staying specific

Zaid Toorawa

Before my final year at York University, I began to look for opportunities and started to follow up with my networks. It was not as easy as it looked.

I was successful in getting interviews, but actually landing a job was fairly difficult. In my final semester, I went through about five interviews in which I had a zero per cent success rate. I was nervous when graduation day came and I still had no full-time job.

Even with experience throughout school, it was extremely difficult to land your 'type' of job. I realized soon enough that I was all over the industry and had the mindset of just 'landing a job.' I hadn't cared about where I was looking and which was my first step to failure. Then I soon realized I wanted to target specific companies in the banking in-dusty through my networks and was able to land a job successfully.

Where I am now
I currently am employed at CIBC World Markets as a Financial Analyst. I am looking to apply to B-school for September 2013.

My recommendations for employers, schools and career centres

Emphasis should be placed on developing new skills and educating students on how to gain a competitive advantage. Schools should organize networking events on a regular basis as it would allow students and new graduates to have some sort of motivation, especially with the downturn of the economy.

My recommendations for students

Get involved and start networking. When I started my first year at York University, I did not know where to look for advice, nor was I receiving any. I personally wouldn't want students to network solely in their final year of school rather than throughout their degree. What makes him/her stand out from other graduates/students? How is he/she more qualified? Why should we choose him/her? These are some of the questions employers tend to ask themselves when choosing their desired applicants. Do something different, get involved and network!

The perfect pursuit

CATHY KEATES
TalentEgg.ca

Which qualities are essential to entry-level job search success?

I love having a chance to answer this question because the qualities which are important in job searching are often overlooked. A lot of time is spent determining the 'right' skills and worrying about having the 'right' degree. Not a lot of time is spent thinking about the process of the job search itself, and what helps you to see it through to a job offer!

Persistence The importance of persistence is obvious. Any job search takes time and effort. And while you will find success at the end, and lots of interesting information, helpful people, and a variety of leads, along the way, there will inevitably also be doors that close, dead ends, and unhelpful people too. When and if you stumble (and we all do), it's the ability to pick yourself up and keep going that will get you to your goal. It seems corny to say "never give up," but being persistent and holding on to the belief that things will happen, is one of the most important qualities for job searching.

Commitment to networking

Not exactly what you were looking for? Try to stay open to unexpected opportunities. They might just lead to your dream position. ISTOCK

Almost every successful job search is based on networking. And not just the activity of networking, but the personal commitment to get out there and continually work on your networking. For some people this is really taking yourself out of your comfort zone. It can be way easier to just sit at your computer (alone, in your comfortable home) and surf job posting sites. Talking with people, real live people, can seem way scarier, but, ultimately, job search success comes from continuing to be committed to connecting with people.

Flexibility Being flexible means being open to the unexpected opportunities and ideas that will come your way as you job search. Where we end up is rarely exactly where we expected. Your job search is not usually like going to the grocery store, where you head directly to the aisle with the product you want, and grab it. It is more like an exploration.

Until you have done a lot of your research and job searching, you won't know which aisles have what and what jobs in what organizations are even available right now. And what is available will be constantly changing. More often I find that successful people narrow things down to a focus, but a focus that leaves space for some flexibility. CATHY KEATES IS A CAREER COUNSELLOR AND TRAINER WHO HAS WORKED AS A CAREER COUNSELLOR AT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY. Run with it. Athletic experience can give you a competitive edge

It's no secret: athletes are the demigods of college and university life.

While some athletes will be fortunate enough to turn pro, most will have to contend with a completely different playing field: the professional workplace.

What works in an athlete's favour is the constant pressure to perform under demanding conditions and the need to make quick and accurate decisions. Moreover, competitors in team sports are presumed to have above-average interpersonal and communication skills.

"Achievement in athletics requires discipline, focus, sustained effort, and working towards specific goals. These character traits are ingredients for success in virtually any field, but they work especially well in finance," says former Merrill Lynch VP Mark Kolakowski.

A hockey player both during his time at Harvard University and while pursuing his MBA at Wharton, Kolakowski says the reason the finance industry loves hiring former athletes is impressive job candidate than non-athletic men, even for traditionally male-dominated positions in traditionally male-dominated organizations," he adds. He continues that it helps if the recruiter is a sports fan or a former athlete as well, since the candidate will have the opportunity to establish personal affinities during the interview which another candidate without an athletic background might have difficulty developing. JLEEN YU IS A WRITER AND EDITOR FOR THE NEWSLETTER OF A NON-PROFIT MICROFINANCE ORGANIZATION IN THE PHILIPPINES CALLED KFI (KAALALAY FOUNDATION, INC.).

Stroman's Blue Jays journey underway in Vancouver

MLB. Highly-touted pitching prospect 'ready to go' in single-A Marcus Stroman hopped on a bus Tuesday morning as he began the ride to what he hopes will be a career in the big leagues.

The Toronto Blue Jays pitching prospect, chosen in the first round of this year's Major League Baseball draft, is getting ready to commence his career with the Vancouver Canadians of the single-A Northwest League amidst high hopes from the parent club.

He is expected to take the mound Wednesday against the Boise Hawks.

"I feel like I'm ready to go," said the 21-year-old. "There'll definitely be some butterflies in my stomach when I'm out there for my professional debut, but I'm excited, man. I can't wait to get out there and compete. I'm ready to roll."

The Blue Jays took Stroman with the 22nd pick overall. Assistant general manager Andrew Tinnish, formerly the team's scouting director, and Toronto manager John Farrell have said Stroman could rise to

Former Armstrong staffers given lifetime bans

With Lance Armstrong still digging in for a legal fight, the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency on Tuesday issued lifetime sports bans to three former staff members and consultants on Armstrong's winning Tour de France teams for doping violations. Yuck. The noxious smells of spilled beverages, pet whatever, partially eaten food, barfy kids, tobacco smoke and, well, you get the picture. The makers of Eco Touch Odor Eliminator claim the product will "trap and eliminate (odours) on a microscopic level," leaving your vehicle smelling faintly of ... cucumbers. The product works by spraying the affected area on the floor or seat covers (except vinyl or leather) with one or two applications, depending on the severity of the odour, and simply let dry. Sounds promising, and for $8 US for a five-ounce bottle, it's likely worth the attempt. Pick one up at ecotouch.net/odor-eliminator.

Function over form

On the inside, the most noticeable change is a rear seat that is now a true bench design with a split-folding 60:40 seat back. Before, there was a two-bucket-seat-style arrangement separated by a storage compartment. Again it appears that function has won out over form.

Rear-end redesign

The CC's revised shape is certainly most obvious at the front but to a lesser degree it includes the opposite end where a new set of brighter and faster-acting light-emitting diode (LED) taillights have been installed. Fortunately, the car's signature fastback roofline remains the same sensuous shape as before.

Review. The sleek four-door dials back the design a touch, but maintains its high-style status in VW's lineup

From a corporate-branding standpoint, it likely makes sense to create a familiar "family" look between products.

Most automakers do it at the front end with the grille, bumper and the headlights. But does it make sense to pull back a good design just to make it fit the mold?

Many would argue that the Volkswagen CC was unique and special enough to have its own signature style, but obviously the corporate bosses disagree.

Right off the bat, let's deal with the controversial side of CC's refreshing.

The delightfully delicate nose-piece hood and headlights attached to all previous models, beginning with the 2009 model year version, were unquestionably more appealing than the just-released 2013 edition. Having said that, the CC is still good looking, only now it has more in common with the conservatively shaped Passat sedan.

And far be it for anyone to judge VW too harshly these days. The automaker is currently the new "in" brand and is selling both the Passat and smaller Jetta sedans just as fast as they roll off of their assembly lines in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Puebla, Mexico, respectively. In addition, its other mix of passenger cars and tall wagons are doing a fairly brisk business.

Overall, the CC might not appeal to buyers with maximum practicality in mind, or fuel economy along with a down-to-earth price. But for a high-style sedan masquerading as a sport coupe that's geared for fun, this Volkswagen remains tops in its class, despite its more familial appearance.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

What worked for you in the past won't necessarily work for you in the future, so be ready to move with the times. Always be flexible.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Change may not come easily to those born under the sign of the bull but change you must — and soon. Let the planets guide you today and let the world see that you've got an adventurous side too.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

You already know what is and is not possible — you don't need anyone telling you — and if you apply that knowledge, you will enjoy success.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

Others may make light of your efforts but the planets indicate you are on the verge of a major success that will make critics green with envy.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

Planets warn if you try to get out of what you are expected to do today, you'll have to do twice as much tomorrow.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

You have some tough tasks ahead of you and no doubt you are worried that you might fail. Don't be. If you approach what you have to do in the right spirit, you will win through sooner or later — probably sooner.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

Saturn in your sign warns you must not take shortcuts. A job that is worth doing is a job that is worth doing well — and a job that is done well is likely to be well rewarded.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

You will have to be firm with a friend or work colleague today. If you let them off the hook now, they'll only let you down again later. Next time, the consequences will be dire.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Try not to be too eager when negotiating with people who have something you want. If they get the impression that you are desperate, you will end up paying double.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

With Saturn, your ruler, moving through the career area of your chart, you must be serious about your ambitions.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

You have been thinking about making some big changes for quite some time but you are still in the same place. It's time to get serious.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Everyone seems to be on your case at the moment and you are wondering what you have done to deserve such negativity. Don't worry, they will get over it. SALLY BROMPTON
